DIRECTIONS FOR MARING BREAD FROM ELECTRIC LIGHT FLOUR.

To one quart warmed milk or water, add two-thirds of a teacupital of yeast, or one compressed yeast cake, add kicctric Light Flour to thickness of batter and site theroughly with a strong then et to rise. One of the great point is marking good bread is to have the flour dry and boors. In making up the downth sait to with the taking good bread is to have the flour dry and hours. In making up the downth sait to with the take, adding a little warm water to dissolve the sait, add Kleetric Light Flour enough to keep the dough from saleking to the beard, put in from half to one ounce pure lard (which diselves in the dough) kneeding soitly until it works 'reciy, then set to rise for one hour. Kneed again thoroughly for fifteen or twenty minutes. Electric Light Flour requires much more ancesting than where wheat four. Mask into small loaves after which rise it for one hours, when ready for the oven, bake one full hour in a needium heated oven; do not let breed stand in oven after it is done. The result will be a most beautiful white and sweet lost, which will keep moist for a long while.

Electric Light will work much better by thoroughly drying it out before using; let it set on back of the slove until perfectly dry, but do not allow it to get hot.

Follow our directions, send us a report of the result, and we will mail you a beautiful "SOUVENIK" as a reminder that Feetric Light Flour is the best obtainable.
